

Clearing The Air

Ireland's Move To Protect Young People

Shaped like a highlighter, with sweet smelling scents and candy like flavours, vaping has become a popular trend amongst young people in Ireland. Although they seem fun and trendy, vaping has concerning health risks attached to them. Because of this, the government are taking steps to prioritise your health and well-being by implementing a new law on the sale of vapes to young people. By understanding the motivations behind this new piece of legislation, you will recognise the significance of this decision

